VOL 6 ISSUE 7 – July 2014

I apologize for the delay in the social area changes, but wish it to be complete when we make the move. I hope that you will have patience!

An invitation has been sent to designers to participate in a series of designs called the "Village Home" series. These will be a representation of their imagined, personal "Village Home". As of this morning there are 8 designs committed and I know 2 models are in the stitching stage! I hope you will join me in great anticipation of some very special designs from your favorite designers. The emails sent are based on the designers who are on my email list and who are in the designer gallery. As we all know, email can go missing, so be sure to let your favorite designers know that they are invited to participate! The link for them is on the main village site under the "Designer" menu option.

Hope to see you in the social area!

“Village Home” Design Series

Some of your favorite designers are creating designs to represent their Village home. This project offers the designers an opportunity to show an element of their favorite things. I can assure you that you will love the designs and personal creations from the talented designers that give us such wonderful projects. The designers are signing up, the release schedule is coming together, and the formal announcement of the first release will be soon. These will be available for purchase through needlework shops!!

Member Contest My Village Home

To allow members to get involved and generate excitement for the upcoming “Village Home” series of charts, you are invited to enter a “My Village Home” ornament contest. To enter, please stitch and finish an ornament which represents either a theme or an element you and your home in The Stitchers’ Village would have. Maybe your home would be made of Gingerbread to have Christmas all year round and your ornament would depict a little Gingerbread house. Or, be surrounded by a vineyard and your ornament would be a bunch of grapes. Make it personal to show one of your favorite things and use your imagination. The entry deadline is November 15, 2014. All entries will be given consideration for several prize categories. Check the “Activities” tab on the main village site for a pdf with details on submitting your entry.
All entries will be sent to TSV Headquarters and become the property of TSV.
